At Blair Estate the secluded exclusive corporate hospitality we offer is second to none.

Privacy and peace are essential for the focusing of minds so take this opportunity to release your best to be their best. Our corporate hospitality team will provide the perfect environment for corporate incentives, business celebrations, management development and team building activities.

“A superb venue for the meeting of minds. The hospitality is sensitive, personal and professional - a difficult balance to achieve.” Tom Kremer - CEO Winning Moves

Located in Scotland's golfing heartland, Blair is an idyllic venue for all your exclusive executive hospitality requirements. The 400 acre walled estate, situated midway between Glasgow's two airports, is perfect for your team building and executive corporate events. In this serene atmosphere you can set your own schedule for presentations, product launches and board meetings without distraction. The exclusive use of Blair Estate and Castle ensures complete confidentiality and our discreet staff will ensure distractions are kept to a minimum throughout your stay.

As you drive through large wrought iron gates and along the double lime tree avenue, you enter the peace and tranquillity of the Blair Estate. Blair castle, dating back to 1105, is the oldest continually inhabited mansion house in Scotland that has not been rebuilt, and it is still privately owned by descendants of the founding family.

The castle divides perfectly into two main meeting areas for exclusive corporate hospitality. Adjoining rooms provide a plenty of break-out rooms for your private meetings. Captain Blairs Study is an imposing room for senior corporate board meeting.
